The Last Half Million

OF THE

7 PER CENT. GOLD BONDS

ISSUED BY THE

CHICAGO, ANNIBLE & VINCENNES Railroad Company.

Are now offered for sale, about $1,500,000 having already been sold.

The road (236 miles in length) is the air line low grade route to Chicago from the Indiana Coal Fields.

That portion of the road (172 miles) which has been in operation since December 1871, has earned over and above all expenses, its interest obligation upon Bonds for the same time, being but $160,916 67 gold.

The net earnings increased from $15,823.45 in December to $28,399.62 in October, the latter being at the rate of $340,795.41 per annum. The total interest liability upon the total issue of Bonds on the whole line is $280,000 gold. The 236 miles are therefore earning at the rate more than enough to pay interest upon the entire bonded debt upon the 236 miles.

These facts give the best assurance to careful investors, that the First Mortgage 7 per cents of this Company are SAFE BEYOND QUERY.

The Indiana Division, giving direct access to the coal mines, on completing the connection between them and Chicago will be in operation by January 1st, and the earnings of the road will be therefore largely increased.

The company is not in debt, and owns a large and very valuable real estate in Chicago, besides having an equipment of twenty four first-class locomotives and about 800 cars.

The Bonds are at the rate of $18,500 per mile, are for $1,000 each, and have forty years to run, bear interest (at 7 per cent gold) payable in New York April 1st, and October 1st.

The present price is 90 and interest from October 1st, the company reserving the right to advance the price at any time.

Early orders are suggested in order to secure a portion of this extremely desirable loan.

THE WEATHER SIGNAL SERVICE.

The report of the Chief Signal Officer of the Army, General Albert J. Myer, for the year 1872, contains much valuable information in regard to the workings of the Signal Service, and some highly practical suggestions in reference to future provision for its usefulness. It hardly needs the details Gen. Myer furnishes to establish the fact that the Signal Service Bureau has materially advanced its usefulness in the year just passed. Ten additional stations have been established in the United States, making the whole number of points from which meteorological observations are made, seventy two. A system of exchanging reports with important stations in Canada is also carried out, and this plan gives seven additional points of observation. Arrangements of a similar description are contemplated for the exchange of observations by telegraph with various points in the West India Islands. An observer has been sent to the island of St. Paul, Alaska, and another is with the North Polar expedition of Captain Hall.

A comprehensive plan for the study of the meteoric conditions of the country has been kept steadily in view in the location of stations. From the stations on the Aleutian Islands, and those contemplated in the Sandwich Islands, it is hoped, the first intimations may be had of storms or meteoric disturbances having their origin, perhaps on the coasts of Asia, or in the equatorial regions of the Pacific, and destined to extend to the Pacific coasts of the United States. The Pacific coast stations may recognize and report the first appearance in their neighborhood of the disturbances thus traced, and thus the connection is continued to the Rocky Mountain stations, and so on eastward. Since January 1, 1872, statements of the changes in the depths of water in the principal western rivers, being in direct relation to the meteoric changes, have been reported daily from all stations established on those rivers. It is hoped that as the number of stations increases, and communication with the proper authorities is organized, a portion of the great problem of the protection of the river commerce from ice and freshets, and of the lower course from breakages and overflow, with the consequent disasters, will be solved.

A comparison of the tri-daily forecasts, or "probabilities," as they have been styled, with the meteorolic conditions afterward reported, gives an average of 89 per cent. as verified up to November 1, 1872. From that date up to January 1, 1872, the average of verification was 75 per cent. If regard be had to the predictions verified within a few hours of the time for which they were made, the average is found to be no less than 82 per cent. The percentage of cautionary signals followed by the occurrence of winds described in the warnings, as far as the display of the signal was for a port where the signal was displayed, or within a radius of one hundred miles, is estimated to have been about [illegible] per cent.

The examination of a mobilized corps of observers has been commenced. This will be composed of picked men, and its object is to place at the disposal of the Government the power of suddenly increasing the number of observers from which reports are to be had in any section of the country which may, at any season of the year, be especially threatened by storms.

Our highly-respected friend of the Presque Isle Aroostook kindly tenders us some advice as to the measures which we should advocate and the precise manner in which it would be advisable for us to support them. With the most grateful appreciation of the courtesy, we fear that the impossibility of consulting our worthy contemporary with reference to this delicate issue, with the possibility that on some of our occasions it might not be able to defer to our affairs that attention which is accorded in the weekly regulation of the vital interests of humankind, will compel us to forego the assistance so benevolently offered, and we shall have to rely upon our own judgement in conducting our own business.

The Portland Board of Trade on Monday adopted the following:

Resolved, 2, That this Board hereby enters its protest against the repeal of the bankrupt law by the Congress of the United States, and that the members of Congress from this State be requested to use their influence against the proposed repeal of the General Bankrupt Law as it now exists.

The N. Y. Evening Post says: "Mr. Job S. Stevenson, of Ohio, seems to have caught a Speaker in his effort to 'catch the Speaker.' Having got him, Mr. Stevenson now seems to be at a loss to dispose of his Tartar.—There seems to have been a mistake somewhere, and the Ohio investigator may explain to the disappointed Paddy contemplating the essay of the game he shot with a refractory gun, 'Faith, if yeh'd av ben at my end of the gun, divil a bit wud you run away!'"

The fifteenth annual report of the Vermont Board of Education is a volume of 600 pages, full of reports, statistics and tables of great interest. In the summary of statistics of the schools as given in the report we find there are, in the State, 2160 organized school districts and 164 fractional districts. In 1222 of these there were no schools in 1862. There are 67,293 families, and 84,956 children between five and twenty years of age. Of these, 74,[illegible] attended school in 1872. There are 2[illegible] teachers, 1328 females, and 671 males. The aggregate amount paid for wages and board of teachers in 1872 is $397,165.02.

MEXICAN WAR PENSIONS. An adjourned meeting of the survivors of the Mexican War was held in Pittsburgh, Pa., Saturday evening, and a memorial to Congress was approved, which sets forth that almost a generation has now passed since the conquering country dictated an honorable peace with Mexico, and but few of the men who participated are left to ask a bounty of the Government; that in view of the benefits derived by the nation through the acquisition of California and New Mexico, they ask Congress to grant a pension commensurate with the results springing from their services and achievements; that as these Provinces were acquired from Mexico for the sum of $15,000,000 added to the cost of the war, and this heritage was fought for by the private soldiers for seven dollars per month, they appeal to Congress to remember them in their declining years.

THE SUSQUEHANNA GORGE. A Port Deposit, Md., dispatch states that it will be impossible to blow up the ice there, as it is from 20 to 50 feet in depth, and the gorge extends to Rowlandsville up the river nine miles; while below Port Deposit new ice six inches thick has been formed and extends out into Chesapeake Bay. Even if the great mass of ice was blown up it could not float off. Over $100,000 damage has already been done at Port Deposit.

Bishop Simpson thinks "it has come to the simple proposition: Society must go down or women must vote." In a recent lecture he said he did not think that either the Democratic or the Republican party will be specially advantaged by this right of suffrage. He did not believe that there would be much difference between the opinions of the husband and wife, but he thought that the man would be refined and his political action purified by the influence of woman working in a political direction.

LETTER FROM AUGUSTA.

THE LEGISLATURE IN STATU QUO—THE PENOBSCOT DELEGATION—THINGS PERSONAL AND SOCIAL—AMUSEMENTS, ENTERTAINMENTS, ETC.—THE LEGISLATIVE REUNION.

AUGUSTA, Feb. 10, 1873.

Matters in the Legislature remain quiet as when my last letter was written, nothing of unusual interest having come up to cause a ripple to disturb the general placidity which has thus far marked the session. Still, a great deal of business has come before both branches, and the number of petitions for legislation, sent from all parts of the State since the session opened, is really surprising. All these must receive due attention, and when it is considered that each requires separate action, it will be seen that the Legislature of 1873 has been far from idle.

The members of the Penobscot delegation have taken a prominent part in the legislation this winter. Mr. Foster's able discharge of the duties of the Presidency of the Senate has already been mentioned in a former letter. Senators Smith, Kimball and Shaw hold positions upon important committees, are emphatically working men, and have the respect of the Senate.

Mr. Hatch has taken a leading part in the business of the House. A ready and pleasing speaker, he always commands attention, and he has several times been elected to occupy the Speaker's chair pro tem. Mr. Egery is, as your readers well know, an excellent business man, and, though he rarely speaks in the House, performs a great amount of work there as well as in the committee room, holding, as he does, positions on several leading committees. Mr. Wood is another working member, and his long business experience lentitles his opinions to the respect and consideration they always receive. Mr. Matthews of Hampden, has taken high rank in the House, and has originated a number of important measures. He drew up the minority report of the Judiciary Committee, advocating a change in the law so that attachments of real estate shall not take effect against third persons until recorded, supported it in an able speech, and nearly carried the point. The Senate failed to concur with the House in adopting the majority report, and the bill will again come before the House.

Messrs. Sargent of Brewer, Prentiss of Milford, Webster of Orono, Folsom of Oldtown, Coburn of Kingman, Kimball of Lincoln, Patten of Hermon, Peaks of Charleston, Folsom of Newburg, Butman of Plymouth, Wheeler of Corinth, Foss of Dexter and Oak of Exeter, may all be counted among the working members, active and efficient, watching legislation closely, and giving their support to no measure unless it fully meets their judgment. Mr. Webb of Lowell has unfortunately been prevented by a severe illness from being present since the early part of the session, but was taking rank as a very useful member. His many friends will be gratified to learn that he is recovering in health.

The capital, as well as the capitol, is unusually quiet this winter, and the city presents an appearance so entirely different from its aspect during the "old war times" that a philosopher would be tempted to moralize on the subject at great length. I will forbear, however, out of consideration for your readers' patience, and deal of the things of to day. Public amusements have been few so far during the session, but very well patronized. A course of lectures by prominent gentlemen of the State has furnished intellectual food which has been much enjoyed; while a series of select social dances at Granite Hall has given devotees of Terpsichore ample opportunity to disport themselves. The Masonic organizations of the city held a levee in Granite Hall on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday evenings of last week, at which dramatic performances by a club from the National Military Asylum, excellent vocal music by the Arion Quartette (male voices) of this city, instrumental music by Berry's orchestra, and lastly, but by no means least, readings from his poems by David Barker, Esq., were the attractions offered. The net receipts of the levee were not far from $800, which I understand are to go towards a fund the Masons are raising to purchase a lot on which to erect at some future day a hall for their use. This week the Universalist society have their annual levee, which promises to be like those given by the society in past years, a success.

The social event of the season will be the reunion of the Legislature of '72 on Thursday next. Cards of invitation have been issued to every member of that and the present Legislature, and also to many members of former Legislatures, and judging by the great number of favorable responses received by the committee there will be a large attendance from all parts of the State. The idea of the reunion originated with Hon. Hiram Bliss, Jr., whose receptions at the Augusta House a few winters ago, will be well remembered. He has the hearty co-operation of a large committee, who will aid him in carrying out his happy project. A "mock session" will be held in the Representatives' hall Thursday afternoon, when it is expected that revelations will be made and investigations ordered, which will throw the Credit Mobilier completely into the shade. In the evening a grand ball occurs at Granite Hall, music for which will be furnished by Andrews' orchestra of your city. It will undoubtedly be one of the most brilliant affairs which has ever taken place in the city.

The Bangor delegation are comfortably quartered at the Augusta House, where "gentle dullness" has not been allowed a moment's reign so far this season. "Socials" are held nearly every evening in the spacious parlors, at which acting charades have been the leading feature for a week or two past. Grave Senators and frisky Representatives alike yield to the sway of the charming ladies who take the lead in these entertainments, and the tableaux presented to illustrate "syllables and words" are always amusing, often astonishing, and sometimes truly startling.

Vocal and instrumental music form an important and pleasing part of these socials and the fine musical talents of Miss Egery of your city being fully recognized and appreciated, she is very frequently called upon to sing or preside at the piano. The socials usually end with a dance, in which as many as can find room participate. I notice that the old fashioned contra dances, such as "Virginia reel," "money musk," "Boston fancy," and the like, are in high favor with the dancers, who enjoy themselves to the utmost and extract lots of fun from the most unlikely sources.

Among the ladies from Penobscot county, now at the Augusta House, who take a prominent part in the socials, are Mrs. and Miss Egery, Mrs. Wood, the Misses Wood, and Miss Alice Hatch of your city, and Miss Webster and Mrs. Palmer of Orono, all of whom appear to be having a very pleasant sojourn here. POTER.

The N. Y. Post thinks we can afford to increase the salary of the President, though it is not positive about raising the pay of Congressmen. Of the former proposition it says:

As to the President, we think a great and rich nation like this can afford to pay its chief magistrate $50,000. As human nature is constituted and human affairs are conducted, there is a dignity in station that must be paid for, and style and ceremony that must be kept up in accordance with the customs of the age we live in. The President of the United States ought to spend a good deal of money to surround his position with all the proprieties and graces that belong to such a station, and to spend money he must be so it.

It is thought that the nomination of a thorough-going temperance man as the Republican candidate for Governor of Connecticut and the resolution of the Republican Convention in favor of more stringent legislation, will have the effect to disband the Temperance party in the State.

Annual Convention of the State Reform Club.

The State Reform Club will hold its Annual Convention in Augusta, at ODD FELLOWS HALL, on THURSDAY, February 13 at 2 o'clock P. M., for the purpose of perfecting its organization and of taking such measures as may be deemed necessary to carry out and complete as far as possible, the work which it has so successfully begun, viz: to save the fallen, to convert the moderate drinker to the wine drinker, and the older drinker, to the principle of total abstinence from all that can intoxicate—to reform all men who touch, taste or handle any kind of intoxicating drinks—and lastly, to awaken a new interest in the old temperance men in the State to the importance of renewed moral effort to suppress the evils of intemperance.

It is to be hoped that every Club in the State will send five delegates. Distinguished speakers will address the meeting in the evening.

All temperance men are cordially invited to be present, and take part in our deliberations.

The next entry was in June, 1868, "Deposited with the Sergeant at arms $10,000."

Question—Have you an entry on this or any other book in reference to Mr Colfax?

Answer—I have.

Judge Poland—Well, let us see it first.

Mr Ames—Let us go through this book.

Mr Ames produced the book and read as follows —"Friday, January 22, 1869. Paid S Colfax $30 75, interest on $1 500, certificates of Union Pacific R. R." Witness testified that the certificates alluded to were dividends on Credit Mobilier The stock and the money was paid here in Washington.

NO RECEIPTS FROM COLFAX.

Q—Have you been able to find any receipts signed by Mr Colfax?

A—I have not found any yet, but have searched carefully

The witness then read the entry from the date of July 20th 1868, showing that he received $78,000 in money and coupons of the Cedar Rapids R. R bonds to be invested in Credit Mobilier stock. He took the coupons as money and made the investment Feb. 1st, 1868.

Q—Did you mean to tell a lie or the truth?

A—I won't answer the question It is an impudent one In explanation of his former testimony the witness said he desired to make it as easy as he could for these men and he had probably erred on their side but now they came here to make him out a liar

MR COLFAX'S RULING SUSTAINED

The Poland special committee reassembled at 7 o'clock Vice President Colfax read the following letter from a gentleman, who he declared the best parliamentarian in the United States

Clerk's Office of House of Representatives of the United States, Feb 10th, 1873 Hon Schuyler Colfax

Dear Sir—At your request I have examined the proceedings of the House of Representatives for the session of Congress commencing December, 1867 and ending July, 1868, as reported in the Congressional Globe I have examined all your rulings as speaker, on every proposition made during the entire session by Hon E B Washburn and Hon C C Washburn in relation to the Union Pacific Railway, and find no ruling made by you that was not, in my judgement, commended and justified by parliamentary law Very respectfully, JOHN M BARCLAY,

Journal Clerk House of Representatives

COLFAX'S EXPLANATION

Mr Colfax then addressed the committee as follows

Gentlemen—Last fall I was one of a number of persons in public life charged with having been bribed by gifts of stock in the Credit Mobilier, from which an enormous dividend had been received, and for which certain legislation had been procured I replied to these charges in a speech at South Bend, Indiana, Sept. 5th, 1872, in which, after showing that the most important part of this legislation had been enacted four years before the alleged bribery I suggested to the personal attack as follows "Received from the Chicago Inter Ocean of the next day 'Never having in my life a dollar of stock of any kind, that I did not pay for I claim the right to purchase stock in the Credit Mobilier or Credit Immobilier, if there is one nor do I know of any law prohibiting it. Do I need to add that neither Oakes Ames or any other person offered to give me one share or 20 shares or 200 shares in the Credit Mobilier or any other railroad stock and, that unfortunately I have never seen or received to the value of a farthing out of the 270 per cent dividends or 800 per cent dividends in cash, stock or bonds, you have read about for the past month, nor 100 per cent, nor the 1 4th of one per cent. I have said that if 20 shares of it could be purchased at par without bringing into a prospective lawsuit, it would be a good investment, if it was as valuable a stock as represented but never having been a plaintiff or defendant in a court of justice, I want no stock at any price, with a lawsuit on the top of it It will be seen from these extracts that I publicly claimed last fall the right to purchase the stock

I avowed frankly that I would have been willing to pay for 20 shares, if I did not buy into a prospective law suit, but that no possible profits could indeed me to involve myself in litigation I voluntarily abandoned a contract to purchase at the rate I had stated and on the very grounds I had stated, and having no certificate, no ownership of the stock in it, my answer to the charges then made are the exact truth and then I accepted what ever odium might attach to the willingness to purchase and hold to stock as I then understood it. I will ask that what I then said last Sept. that neither Oakes Ames or any other person ever gave or offered to give me any of this stock has been repeatedly printed during this session, with the essential word "given" omitted, entirely changing its sense Mr. Ames having sworn December 17th in his original statement before the Committee which he declared, as (see page 21 of evidence) embodies the exact facts that he could not remember having paid me any dividends, now declares that in June 1868, a check payable to the initials "S C" or "Schuyler" for $200 but not endorsed by me or any one else, was paid by him to me as a cash dividend of the Credit Mobilier. In answer to this charge, I repeat again that I have not the slightest knowledge or recollection "or belief that I ever saw this check or any other check, of Mr. Ames, that he primarily or ultimately paid to me, or any check or money, or in exchange, a check, draft or notes $1,200 or $1,000, or $100, or any amount whatever

Mr. Colfax further denied all knowledge of any cash dividends or Credit Mobilier stock until the discussion of last fall. Mr Ames never spoke to him of the last dividend, or paid him anything on that or any other account.

I come now to the bank deposit of $1200 in bills for June 22, 1868, and the committee will remember that I really invited the examination of bank accounts by stating to them on asked that I kept my accounts at the First National Bank, where all my checks deposited would be found endorsed by me, whether payable to order or bearer. Difficult as it is to recall all the transactions of five years in a public man's life, I will state to the committee where all the money came from deposited from June 22d, 1868, and will add that it was the month immediately succeeding my nomination for the office I now hold, and the total deposit was $1968 63, and there being no previous deposit later than the 1st of June, it shows that the amount was the accumulation of monies paid to me during the intervening three weeks. This is also proven by the dates of the three checks deposited One check was for $1,868, ten shares of stock $1000 Received of Hon G W Scofield for balance due on bond over dividend $19 33.

April 24th 1868, received of Wm B Allison $571 balance due on stock sold him, then followed a statement in figures showing the value of a $1,000 bond &c The next entry was in reference to James P Wilson, showing $540 paid him and the calculation above referred to.

PATTERSON AND BINGHAM

Witness next read the entries in the case of Mr Patterson, copies of which and receipts were before the Committee a few days since He next exhibited the statement in the case of Mr Bingham which agreed with the figures submitted by that gentleman

GARFIELD AND KELLEY

Has had no settlement with Mr Garfield nor Mr Kelley, read the entries in their cases and testified that he paid to each of them $5,000

NO RECEIPT FROM MR BLAINE

Has no reference on his memorandum book to Speaker Blaine In settling with Mr Painter gave him a check received from Mr Barth to the Cedar Rapid bond Had settled with Mr Logan and gave him a check

Q—Have you any more entries?

A—No sir

Q—You believe we have now seen all the entries on the book in reference to any of these gentlemen?

A—Yes, sir

ALLISON'S RECEIPT

In reply to questions by Mr Niblack, Ames said he had found receipts from any of the gentlemen of any importance, had found one of Mr Allison's, without date, his clerk was now making a further search and he will know some time this week if he should find any The receipt of Mr Allison was as follows 'Received of Oakes Ames 10 shares of the stock of the Credit Mobilier of America, which I hold subject to his order'

CROSS EXAMINED BY JUDGE HALE.

In answer to a question by Mr Hale, the counsel of Mr Colfax, the witness testified that he left the memorandum book at his office in Boston when he came here after the holidays The one for 1868 was brought to Washington so his son since, and taken back to Boston by Mr Kennedy Mr Ames was then put through a long and severe cross-examination by Judge Hale as to how the copy was made and the witness testified they were the copy of the original entries, but admitted of various entries

HIS MEMORY REFRESHED.

The witness further testified that he did not remember of having got any receipt from Mr Colfax and never said so to any person He remembered that he gave to Mr Colfax the check for $1 200 When he made his state[illegible] in Dec to the effect that he could not remember if he had ever paid to Mr Colfax any dividend he had not seen the memorandum and his memory was not refreshed

Q—Did you mean to tell a lie or the truth?

A—I won't answer the question It is an impudent one In explanation of his former testimony the witness said he desired to make it as easy as he could for these men and he had probably erred on their side but now they came here to make him out a liar

A SLIT TO OBLIGE

After much bantering of words between Mr Clark as counsel for Mr Ames and Mr Hale as counsel for Mr Colfax, Judge Poland announced that unless this was stopped the Committee would be compelled to dismiss both of them as there was great chattering for nothing

Mr Ames—I have been thinking so ever since he began [Laughter]

THE CLERK BELIEVES HE PAID THE $1,200 CHECK TO AMES

Sidney D Lum, clerk in the office of the Sergeant at arms, was recalled and testified that it was his impression that he paid the $1,200 check mentioned 'S C' to Mr Oakes Ames Thought he paid him in two $600 bills In talking with Mr Ames during the last 2 hours witness asked him if he did not swear he paid the check to Mr Ames

At 6 o'clock the Committee took a recess till 7 o'clock this evening

MR COLFAX'S RULING SUSTAINED

The Poland special committee reassembled at 7 o'clock Vice President Colfax read the following letter from a gentleman, who he declared the best parliamentarian in the United States

Clerk's Office of House of Representatives of the United States, Feb 10th, 1873 Hon Schuyler Colfax

Dear Sir—At your request I have examined the proceedings of the House of Representatives for the session of Congress commencing December, 1867 and ending July, 1868, as reported in the Congressional Globe I have examined all your rulings as speaker, on every proposition made during the entire session by Hon E B Washburn and Hon C C Washburn in relation to the Union Pacific Railway, and find no ruling made by you that was not, in my judgement, commended and justified by parliamentary law Very respectfully, JOHN M BARCLAY,

Journal Clerk House of Representatives

COLFAX'S EXPLANATION

Mr Colfax then addressed the committee as follows

Gentlemen—Last fall I was one of a number of persons in public life charged with having been bribed by gifts of stock in the Credit Mobilier, from which an enormous dividend had been received, and for which certain legislation had been procured I replied to these charges in a speech at South Bend, Indiana, Sept. 5th, 1872, in which, after showing that the most important part of this legislation had been enacted four years before the alleged bribery I suggested to the personal attack as follows "Received from the Chicago Inter Ocean of the next day 'Never having in my life a dollar of stock of any kind, that I did not pay for I claim the right to purchase stock in the Credit Mobilier or Credit Immobilier, if there is one nor do I know of any law prohibiting it. Cardine, and one for $400, dated June 17th, signed by T Denny & Co, none of them having the slightest connection with the subject of investigation before the Committee of the deposit of the sum of $200, I am positive they were paid me by my stepfather Mr Matthews, on account of a debt he owed me in Dec. 1867 I paid $465 for a piano of Steinway & Co, through W G. Metzeroff for his daughter, the check for which is on the bank and I agreed to wait for the most of it until the summer, when he expected to be better able to pay me.

stranger. "Lady Clavering, we must have Lord Clavering's son here."

"What?"

"We must have—I must have—Lord Dayuham here. I can write. Malaise can go to her the post. Of course you know the way?"

"Oh yes, madame!"

"It will reach him in time?"

"If you telegraph to Paris in these words, from Malaise—compliments of the season—he will come," said Lady Clavering. "But—"

She ceased speaking. It was quite evident that the beautiful lady was to have her own way. She was already giving Malaise the money and saying she was glad the night looked so bright and "What a blessing it this month is nonsense!"

"I could not, it would not be right not for me to interfere," began Lady Clavering again.

"my mother has brought you—"

"Yes, I am sure of it. She are stubborn things. Kiss me once more, dear Lady Clavering. All will go well. You have been—you are so good, but I must rule now. Some times it is safer to be over ruled, I assure thee you."

"It is terrifying though."

"Perhaps but I wish you would not be nervous. I heard hammering in the hall. Is that Lord Clavering's voice? He is instructing the workmen, and I thought just now that the wreath wanted white, which will brighten up the body green and red are for nothing, dread nothing, and I only wish things that Lord Clavering has to get. Give me back my mother!"

She uttered the words with a cry a wail so subjuring that it seemed to pierce Lord Clavering's soul. She trembled from head to foot. Tears burst down her flushed cheeks in torrents. I can't live without my mother. Give me back my mother!" and the moisture rose to Lord Clavering's eyes as he saw and heard her.

"You must explain yourself," he said, making her sit down by him. "What have I to do with your mother?"

"She follows to see me," sobbed Lady Dayuham. "My dear mother, the great blessing of my life, my darling, my Palmer—she won't see me, she will not come to me. Perhaps you embittered her husband's life, that you can't think anything but evil of the deal, that you have allowed a ridiculous idea of having suffered injustice to embitter all life and wreck my marrying the son of such a man separates me from her forever, or at least, till you come to your senses, and ask her to forgive you and give me back O Lord Clavering, I shall think, as you thou in mercy only a resolution never to see or to the well of one so low creature—has been perverted in it! It has lost you a son, obedient, and broken my heart! Oh! I cannot live with an angry mother, I cannot endure life apart from her. I love her—I cling to her—I long to hear her has always been the tenderest, the most indulgent of mothers. Give her back to me! Let me see her now! Give her back to me! It all depends on you."

Then tell me what I shall do," he said with cast-down eyes, and speaking gently and low. "I did not think but to have my son married without my knowledge—there no mortification to me, do you suppose, in having the world made acquainted with so startling a fact?"

"It was all your own fault. How could we help it? I am in every way fit to be his wife. He had a right to choose me. I have come here to make things right. Chance has favored me. The Strongbow of to night must be Lord Dayuham. You must immediately tell all the world assembled here the fact of our marriage, and you must tell all truth—say what am, and why we married without your knowledge. All the people in the county who have reached Middle Age remember my father, and know of your quarrel with him. Nothing but truth can help us. And go to morrow to Huntly, and get me back my mother!"

Once more the voices of her emotion seemed to overcome her, and she sa Ron her knees at Lord Clavering's feet.

The moment that Lady Dayuham appeared as strongbow, there was a sound like the hushed breath of a mute surprised, and a dead stillness. The bride dressed with the most independent beauty, the bridegroom, with the young stars of her husband close to her all very true. One moment gone—Lord Clavering by his son's side—and then the curtain drop ped upon a people breathless and pale, were on to stopped in their applause by Lord Clavering appearance in his knock announ, and saying "It is all true!" How they all talked! how they crowded round, "Lady Dayuham" the wedding tableaux had all' had the appearances But no! Lady Dayuham was embrace ing her husband in a sobbing fit of hysterics the consequence of the shock, and they only appeared in time to open the lid The good county gossips remembered all about the quarrel, and those angry disappointed years which had tolerated her for the sake of her husband's fortune. They talked of the thing else, and everybody rejoiced over the ending of so long cherished a grief.

But when at last people began to go away and others to get to bed, Lord Clavering and Lady Dayuham were found to be going too through the night to Mrs. Huntly—through the night! I say, I repeat, I am glad to get your daughter for my child—to ask for forgiveness

"Oh, take all you want, and welcome!" said Mrs. Huntly, "only you will please to remember that I never loved any man but my husband, and that you deceived me, chance with the—to never!"—London Society.
